Trump’s Air Force One flies a wide arc to avoid passing over Brno

US President Donald Trump's airplane avoided Brno's airspace while heading on to India.

Raymond Johnston

In the News, Odd Czech News, The Czech Republic
February 25, 2020
11:51 am

Brno tends to be made the butt of jokes, especially by people from the far-superior Prague. An image posted on Twitter tracking US President Donald Trump’s plane, Air Force One, adds another punchline to the Brno-dissing theme.

Air Force One, carrying Trump and first lady Melania Trump on their way to India, made a strange aerial maneuver to avoid flying over the second-largest city in the Czech Republic. The Boeing VC-25 flew a straight line across the Czech Republic until it approached Brno, and veered northeast to make a semicircle around the Moravian capital

The high-flying shade was first noted by Seznam reporter Vojtěch Gibiš on Twitter. “Donald Trump really avoided Brno with an arc. Apart from the usual reasons that come to mind as a Praguer, I guess it was to avoid the strong wind,” he said.

https://news.expats.cz/weekly-czech-news/trumps-air-force-one-flies-a-wide-arc-to-avoid-passing-over-brno/

Truth