

On 4th December 2017 a group of students from three different countries came to our school. Spaniards, Greeks and Germans covered many kilometers, just to visit Poland. And all this thanks to the project F.A.C.E. I.T.

On the first day there was a welcome meeting for our guests. At the beginning it was a bit difficult to start a conversation, maybe because I was not really sure about my language skills. But after the first conversation it turned out that I was doing quite well. This is what is best in international projects. We have the opportunity to test ourselves and our skills. In class, we usually focus on grammar and words. We don't have time to try to talk with each other in English. During the exchange or trips we are forced to speak English and only then it turns out how well we can speak in this language.

On Tuesday (5th December) and Wednesday (6th December) our guests took part in many trips. Unfortunately, I couldn't participate in them, but everyone said they had a lot of fun. On Thursday afternoon there was a goodbye party. At the beginning we had workshops about Silesia and Silesian customs. We could even try on folk costumes. After this interesting meeting, it was time for dancing.

It was a really fantastic evening, fantastic enough that it was difficult to say goodbye the next day. All's well that ends well, on Saturday our guests returned to their countries, and we are impatiently waiting for our trips to Germany, Greece and Spain.
