

Lance Armstrong

The end of super cyclist

Early sport achievements

Since his early childhood Lance has been interesting in sport. When he was 15 years old he focused on cycling.

First big success

1993

1st place at World Road Race Champion USA

1st place in 8th stage of Tour de France

1996

2nd place in Liège-Bastogne-Liège

And many more...

Tour de France

In 1999 he won Tour de France. He had been winning this tough race 7 times in a row! (from 1999 to 2006).

Then he resigned.

But in 2008 he came back to professional cycling and he won Tour de France.

Again...

Accusation of doping

First information about Lance and doping appeared in 2001, but shortly after that all was called off because lack of evidence.

The source of that story was his enemy David Walsh – however there were more unfriendly statements.

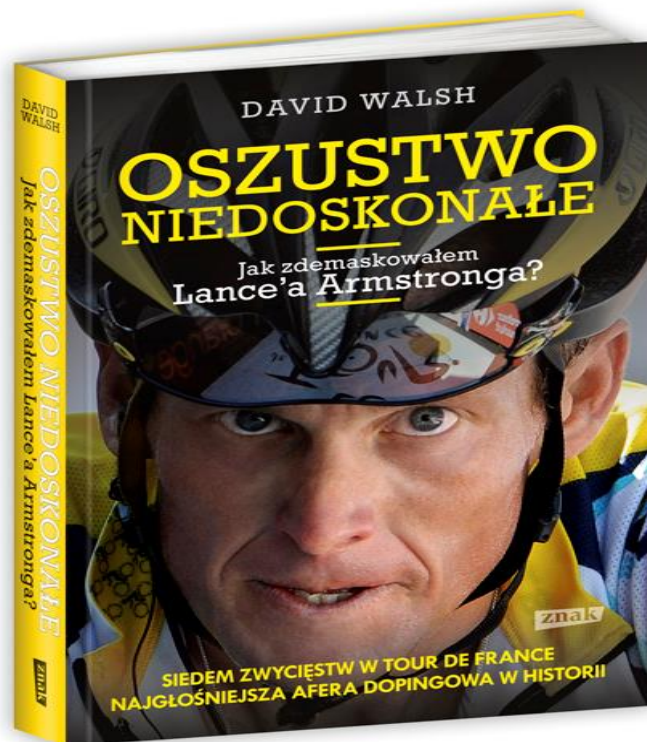

Lance during his interview with Oprah Winfrey admitted to taking doping...

Further consequences

In 2012 USADA accused Lance of using doping. Finally, he was lifetime suspended as a professional cyclist and all his victories since 1998 were taken back.

The end ;)
