

SUPERPOWER

My character is a boy. My character can fly very well, because when he was young he had an accident. He was crossing the road when the lightning hit him. He got superpower, flying! No one can explain how it was done. It was very strange, but this superpower is very good for this boy. He couldn't fly in the sky, but now he can. He likes this power very much. Unfortunately no one from his school don't know about it, because he can't fly when there are kids close to him, but he can fly near adults, so he can fly close to his parents or other adults. This power is amazing. At the beginning he couldn't use this power, he was falling on the floor, but now he can fly very well. He isn't normal, because only he has got this power in the world. Enemy of this power is atmosphere, so something like wind, snow, fog or even rain, because when boy is flying bad weather is the problem. Windy days can be dangerous, because when the big wind blows, boy can fall on the ground and he can break something in his body. Sometimes his mum is tired and she can't go to the shop, so she asks her son to fly to the shop. Our hero is very good son and he is really kind, he has got one sister and one brother and he loves them. This boy is just amazing. I'd like to have power like him
