

The top 10
most requested jobs in the future.

Made by:Jamie,Joshua,Andrea and Iris.

Data Scientist

A Data Scientist is sometimes described as someone who can find a lump of gold in a large mountain of unstructured data. Because Big-Data has become a trend in many industries, the demand for this type of data scientist is increasing enormously, with a few hundred percent growth in recent years. The core task of the (Big) Data Scientist is to analyze large amounts of data in order to discover certain insights that are relevant to the organization. The Data Scientist can now also often be seen in a consultant role

Work Happiness Expert

The Work Happiness Expert is an advisor, manager or staff officer who focuses on increasing the happiness experience on the work floor. The Werk Happiness expert does this by giving workshops and (team-) coaching focused on personal leadership and inspiring sessions. In addition, the Work Happiness Expert shares knowledge and insights about happy working, or he or she implements tools or systems with which the happiness experience of the employees can be tracked. The Werkgezukdeskundige has already been seen on the job market in various forms, from external advisor to Chief Happiness Officer.

Domotics / Smart Home / "Internet of Things"

Expert The Domotica Expert specializes in the use of technical applications in the home, also known as smart homes. Think of connections between internet, telephone and household appliances. Remote control of awnings and heating with your smartphone before you even get home. Here is also the "internet of things" in attendance, for example your refrigerator that orders new milk. There are also different forms of appearance here, from designer to Installer Smart Homes

Growth Hacker

A Growth Hacker is an Online Marketing Specialist who focuses specifically on accelerating growth through the process or "hacking" a particular method. He or she does many small tests / experiments to find the most effective method for achieving the fastest possible growth. When this method is found he / she will use the method as much as possible. The Growth Hacker is often a multi-talented specialist who also specializes in a number of disciplines, so the Growth Hacker has an overview of all possibilities and he or she seeks to connect several connecting elements to achieve the greatest possible effectiveness

Digital Developer

The Digital Developer is a collective name for Web developers or App developers. At Web developers there is another split between Front-end (the visible front of the website) and Back-end (the code of the website that makes different applications possible). The Developer must not only be able to program, but above all to come up with applications that solve a problem or make functionality possible. There has been a shortage of developers for years, so the jobs are up for grabs.

Longevity Coach

The Longevity Coach is a specialized coach in the field of lifestyle, nutrition and exercise. The Longevity Coach focuses on spreading knowledge about how people can stay healthy and vital for a long time. He or she does this by making the clients more consciously responsible choices in the area of nutrition, exercise, stress management and sleep quality. This approach is called "Longevity". This is a contraction of the English terms "long" and "vitality": healthy and vital aging.

Product Owner

The Product Owner is a specialized online product manager. He or she is often the manager a specific part of the online environment, which in this context is called the product. The Product Owner is responsible for the ROI (Return of Investment) of the further development of this specific component. The Product Owner must have a clear vision of what he or she wants to see developed and should also be able to convey this vision to the team and other stakeholders within the company. The Product Owner then translates the ideas into tasks or process steps or small development projects called tickets. These tickets will be placed on the so-called Product Backlog and the Product Owner will determine the priorities.

Development coach

A development coach focuses on the personal or professional development of employees or clients. The development coach comes in different forms, for example as a career coach. The management coach, the mentor and other specialized coaches also fall under this job group. The core of his or her approach is to help the client or employee with changes in behavior that impede the client's personal or professional well-being. He or she does this, among other things, by listening carefully to the client in order to gain insight into the personal bottlenecks of the client and then to convey these insights.

Drone Pilot

The Drone pilot controls a drone. A drone is an unmanned aircraft. Where the pilot of an airplane or helicopter is actually in the aircraft and accompanies, the Drone pilot controls his aircraft from the ground. The Drone pilot can control the drone from a nearby location, but also from many kilometers away. The first professional Drone pilots had a military function, nowadays you can also see them coming back in commercial applications, such as film

3D specialist

A 3D specialist can be either a draftsman or a 3D print specialist. The 3D draftsman creates 3D designs for various applications. For example, the 3D draftsman designs specific parts for devices and machines, but can also make a design for a house so that the house can be viewed from all angles. The 3D-print specialist focuses on printing three-dimensional designs with a 3D printer, it may be that he / she also makes the 3D designs for this.

