

Our school

Szkoła Podstawowa im. Jana Pawła II w Rozogach
John Paul II's Primary School in Rozogi, Poland

This is our school from the front side. Our school is located in Rozogi. The address is Rynek 13 Street. We have a lot of classrooms there. There is a library, a computer room, a cloakroom and a gym.

Our library is very rich with books. There is a very nice librarian. For that reason, students come here often to borrow some books and spend their free time.

This is the gymnasium building and the football pitch.

When the weather is nice, we play games and do sports with friends at the pitch.

The pitch is the same size like the real, professional football pitch.

At the gym we always play handball during the PE lessons.

In our corridors, we spend a lot of time during breaks. We move there from class to class. In the corridor there are doors to all our classes.

A photograph of a school changing room. The room features rows of wooden lockers along the walls, each with a green number label. The lockers are filled with various items of clothing, including jackets, shirts, and pants. In the foreground, there is a long wooden bench. The floor is made of light-colored square tiles. The ceiling has recessed fluorescent lighting and ventilation grilles. The overall scene is a typical school locker room.

It's crowded in the morning and in the afternoon.
