

Panic! At the disco

Panic at the disco, also known as Brandon Urie, is a great idol in America for many even millions of fans. He went to different countries to give a concert. This year he will be visiting the Netherlands in March. Brandon Urie is the singer of the rock band and has already scored many albums.

And stood on number 1 in many top ten's. Do you know him or do you listen to his music? If not, try it after 1 song and you cannot stop listening to his music. One of his best viewed and listened video is high hopes. In the clip you see that Brandon Urie runs up and high flat at the end when he is upstairs you see his logo and his band make music one of his oldest songs is worked together it is called Halloween not all is called it but they sing there too afterwards Brandon started making music himself and after a few years he became a great success with about 10 albums and a few cool music he shot up in the top ten. He got support from someone Sarah in his married name Brandon Urie and Sarah Urie two beautiful people with a wonderful life Brandon has written a song about her called Sarah it is a very beautiful song with beautiful vocals and beautiful text many people thought Brandon was strange because he was a guitarist hat who was a girl but then They were getting married but when they got married everyone knew that it was not so well, yes, well, well.
