The Institute is situated in Chieti Scalo, a territory that since 1950 went through a massive geo-economic and social transformation. Chieti scalo is the modern and industrial part of the city of Chieti and it extends around the area of its railway station. The city experienced a deep transformation around the fifties of the twentieth century and it changed from being mainly a rural environment to a prime industrial and economic area for the province of Chieti as well as for the entire Abruzzo region.

Istituto comprensivo 3 includes three kindergarten schools, three primary schools and one secondary school and a school in hospital. There are different school time typologies with classes that have antemeridian school time where lessons are held only in the morning, and others with “full time” school time, where pupils attend classes also in the afternoon.

Chieti

Chieti is located in the centre of Italy, in the Abruzzo region. It is one of the most ancient cities in Italy, it was founded in 1181 b.C., a long time before the city of Rome. The city is located at 330 m. above mean sea level and consists of two main parts: Chieti Alta and Chieti Scalo.

Chieti Alta (the higher part) is the most ancient part of the city, including the old town and city center, and Chieti Scalo (the newest part) including the economic and industrial area and the city university campus.

Chieti has been for a long time a Roman province due to the military alliance of Marrucini (the ancient people who once occupied these areas), with ancient Rome. In the city there are several ancient monuments related to the roman culture.

Chieti is just 30 minutes far from the mountains and 15 minutes far from the Adriatic sea. The closest mountains are Majella and Gran Sasso, the highest in the centre of Italy.
