

Stereotype is a thought that can be adopted about specific types of individuals or certain ways of doing things. However, this is only a fundamental psychological definition of a stereotype. Some of these definitions share commonalities, though each one may also harbor unique aspects that may contradict the others.

Kind of stereotypes:

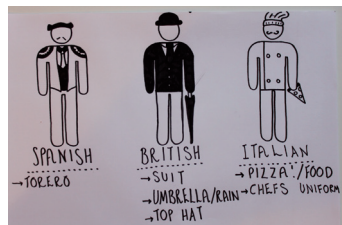

Germans love rules, organization, and structure

Italians are very romantic

Poles abuse alcohol

Spanish don't work. They party all night and sleep all day

Croatians are rude and sometimes quarrelsome
