

German Cuisine

Traditional German food is very delicious. There are lots of German dishes.

A traditional German dish is pork, sauerkraut with mashed potatoes.

Some German people like Wasserspatzen.

There are made of water, eggs, flour and a bit of salt. We eat it with apple sauce or with a sauce made of pork and cream. Some people also eat it with scrambled eggs and cream and a bit of “Maggi” which is a bit like the English “Marmite”.

Another dish, which you can buy in small shops in town, just as you can buy fish and chips in Great Britain, is chips and sausages with curry-flavoured ketchup.

In Germany we also like dishes from other countries.

Our favourite food is pizza, döner and hamburger. In a German restaurant you can get dishes from lots of countries.
