

Protect cultural diversity

You see it everywhere nowadays. People think that the migrants and their kids should adapt to the western standard of living. That they should drop the culture of their ancestors completely and start to live exactly the same way as the people do in the country that they went to. And the problem is that this philosophy gains popularity everyday. You can see it in the Netherlands too, our right wing parties get a lot of votes by screaming things like “Do you want less or more Moroccans in this city and our country” Personally I think that is disgusting. I think we should appreciate our cultural differences and ways of living. Isn't it beautiful that your neighbours can live a completely different life if they want to. Wouldn't the world be boring if we all lived the same way?

The problem with all of this is the fact that people are always scared of new and unknown things. Because they can't relate with the new thing they think is scary, there lies the problem. So we should meet people from other cultures more often than we do now. We should ask our neighbours from a different culture if they would like to come over for dinner. Show them what your culture means to you and what it is about. And you should do the same. Go out, grab a meal somewhere, try new things, food you have never tasted before. Try new things, that is the beauty of our modern world. We don't have to travel to see new cultures anymore. Maybe if we meet each other more often we will start to understand each other.
