

Rat and Rabbit

A rabbit went to a shop and there met an old friend, a rat. The friends agreed to cook potato pancakes. They bought some potatoes, milk, oil and garlic.

They went to the rabbit's house. After that they peeled the potatoes and the garlic. Afterwards they grated the potatoes and added some salt, pepper and milk. They mixed everything and then put the mixture into a frying pan and fried. The rabbit and the rat ate the potato pancake. They enjoyed it very much and went to sleep.

When they woke up, they found out it was a dream. They were very hungry and cooked a potato pancake. The potato pancake was very delicious. They said goodbye to each other and the rat left for home. On the way home the car ran over the rat's tail and for the rest of its life it was without the tail.

Questions:

How many friends are there in the story?

What did they cook?

Where did they meet?

