

PORTUGUESE HERITAGE

Alto Douro Wine Region
Guimarães Historic Center
Belém Tower

Work by:
Jacinta Lourenço
Juliana Simões
Matias Santos
Olívia Pinto
Rita Moita
Rodrigo Santos

GUIMARÃES HISTORIC CENTER

The historic city of Guimarães is associated with the emergence of Portuguese national identity in the 12th century. Here the first king of Portugal was born, as well as his kingdom. It is a well-kept example of the evolution from a medieval town to a modern city.

ALTO DOURO WINE REGION

Alto Douro Vinhateiro is an area of northeastern Portugal with more than 26 thousand hectares, classified by UNESCO as a World Heritage Site, in the category of cultural landscape. Surrounded by mountains that give particular climatic characteristics and bathed by the Douro River, it is part of the so-called Douro Wine Region, an area where wine has been produced for over 2000 years, including the world famous Oporto wine.

BELÉM TOWER

The Torre de Belém, officially Torre de São Vicente, is a fortification, located in Lisbon, on the Tagus River, which served as a watchtower and medieval defense, where artillery pieces were available.

