

Media Literacy and Disinformation Challenge

The Corona-virus pandemic demonstrated just how fast misleading or false information can spread online. That is why being able to separate what is real from what is fake is necessary nowadays.

You are Erasmus+ students studying abroad in a country whose national language is not familiar to you. You are victim of misinformation, disinformation or fake news. You make a filing complaint at the police station. With your teammates act out the scene by playing different roles (Erasmus+ students, policemen, translators, witnesses...) within 15 minutes.
