

The castle of Caccamo

The Normans began building the castle on a rocky spur overlooking a cliff, the castle of Caccamo. Submerged within the Rosamarina lake is a stone bridge built in 1307 on the road that once linked the town with Palermo. The castle itself is actually now being slowly converted into a museum. The Castle of Caccamo is implanted on top of a big calcareous rock dominating the town and a magnificent theater landscape formed by the foothills of the valley of the River San Leonardo

The castle of Alcàzar

The fortress is located in the Plaza de la Reina Victoria Eugenia, between Paseo Don Juan II and the Camino de la Cuesta de los Hoyos, in the western part of the old town, near the confluence of the rivers Eresma and Clamores.

A statistical survey of the nobles of the two castles (Italian-Spanish) on the liking of the dance "A l'entrada del temps clar" reported the following results

A lot	120
A few	53
nothing	82
