

Travel Diary
Finland, 2019

Malcinovic Amela

Vision of the country (before/after)

Before:

For me, Finland was a Nordic country where it was really very cold. I also thought that the locals had a hard time living in this temperature and that they had no dress style for that.

I told myself that it must be difficult to live in this country because people must be unhappy because of the climate.

After:

My vision has completely changed.

I realized that people lived very well in this temperature, that they were happy.

In addition, the inhabitants had a very varied clothing style, that is to say that they could dress as much in pants as in a skirt for the girls.

I was really amazed because I didn't expect what I saw at all.

What did we learn in science ?

During this stay, we learned a lot about astronomy and natural phenomena.

More precisely we studied everything that was related to the solar system, we were also able to discover experiences made by other countries contributing to the Erasmus project.

We have heard a lot about natural phenomena, how they work and how they happen.

This learning method is more efficient than the one traditionally used.

What marqued me.

From all this experience, for my part, I think that what struck me the most is the country itself and its culture. In addition, the whole group that left, ie the Maltese, Poles, Icelanders, Greeks including the Finns, were very generous with us. They helped us to progress in the English language which was a good point and shared their culture with us in different fields.

The spectacular landscapes of Finland were awe-inspiring. I had never observed such a place before.

Erasmus group.

Our contribution:

The translation of certain English expressions allowed us to acquire French vocabulary! We participated in the various activities and helped to set up some.

Our weaknesses:

Our english language! Despite everything, many efforts made it possible to communicate imperfectly, which is the main but it was hard.

Balance sheet.

This stay in Finland was memorable. Discovering the culture of this country made us want to progress in the English language.

We have discovered science otherwise, I find this method of teaching much more attractive than the traditional one, that is to say that we understand better even if it is longer.

We were able to communicate with the group in English, despite the fact that we dreaded this moment a lot.

« Expérience inoubliable »

« Unforgettable experience »

Presentation of Finland.

France group.

High school in Finland.

