

Ethical fashion show

Objectives

- Proposing an event for the international Women's Day
- Working on the image of the woman, and especially the stereotypes
- Doing a good deed while discovering the ethical network of clothes

Implementation

- The school community (teachers/students) was invited to donate the clothes they didn't wear anymore.
- Around 40 students were involved in the organisation of the fashion show and 20 students paraded on the catwalk. For this event, 2 external participants helped: a former girl who took part to a beauty contest and a woman in charge of organizing fashion shows
- Students from the school could buy some of the clothes at a cheap price.

Results / impact

- Students from all years attended the fashion show.
- All teachers and students were involved in the action.
- The clothes were donated to charities, and the money raised was given to an association against women's domestic violence.
