

Growing up in the 21st Century Europe

Earth Day
22nd April 2019

NEUMANN JÁNOS EGYETEM

PETŐFI SÁNDOR GYAKORLÓ ÁLTALÁNOS ISKOLA ÉS ÓVODA

The basis of our existence is the preservation of the diversity of the wildlife. We crowd the wildlife, overeat it and overdo it, this is indicated every year by the report of the Living Planet. Human intervention interferes with the existence of wildlife, including pollinating insects and plants, in the millennium balance of nature. Our food, more precisely the animal's food is responsible for 60% of the loss of biodiversity.

On this special day we took part in an organized program with the children, where we could gain experience about:

- the Moon and the Universe
- the wildlife in the forest, birds, insects living there
- what can the forests and woods give us, how to protect them
- how to build a garden
- how to play with wooden toys of old ages
- the importance of protecting the ocean from plastic pollution
- art craft by using waste material
