In our group, we set out to convey the values, knowledge, behaviors, and lifestyle habits that prepare our fledgling children to protect our natural, built and social societies. The success of environmental education depends primarily on the attitudes, attitudes and methods of educating children. Therefore, in our group, besides the traditional holidays, the so-called green holidays: World Day of Animals, World Water Day, Earth Day, Day of the Birds and Trees and World Environment Day have also played a significant role. On these prominent days, preschoolers can play through environmental competitions to develop environmental and environmentally sound mindsets, from which we can experience we are in nature.

In 1971, the city management decided to set up a Kecskemét Wildcat Zoo the zoo of the city was completed on three hectares, primarily for the presentation of domestic wild animals and native Hungarian pets. Since 2003, there has been a dynamic rebuilding of the wildlife, which is still ongoing today. As a major investment, the tiger house, the bear house, the monkey house and the lion house were completed. Runways, bird-fleets are made in a natural, beautiful environment. In the development of the zoo, one of its most important tasks is the preservation, enhancement and enrichment of the existing natural values.
