

Bildung

Meaning and origin:

Bildung is described as education or formation. It means "creation" in German. It is a self-cultivation philosophy which refers to the process of developing human beings.

"Bildung" in context of today's education:

In my opinion, in the context of today's education Bildung could mean self evaluation in getting new knowledge and experience to become prepared for adult life. For example, by letting us do homeworks, we as students get knowledge by practising and we learn to be on time. Also, when we attend school we meet with our classmates, which generate many opportunities for social interactions. Because of these Internations we could get new experiences with other people.

Ways of being exposed to "Bildung":

I can develop Bildung apart from school while doing my passions but also normal activities. I can always improve my actions, for example while running or mowing the lawn. Next time I will not be making the same mistakes, so I will develop as a human being.