

Cofinanțat prin
programul Erasmus+
al Uniunii Europene

Nichita Stănescu(1933-1983) was considered by the literary critics and the general public as one of the most important writers of Romanian language, which he himself called "beautifully godly"

Field in Spring

"Green rings around the eyes, this grass in vibrant motion arcs tenderly about you, at a distance-you summon it, then fling it around, broken by your laugh of youth and innocence."

Arts High School
"Ionel Perlea"

ROMANIAN POETS

SOS-Sustain Our Souls,
2018-1-DE03-KA229-047309-3

Erasmus+

George Cosbuc (1866-1918)

was a Romanian poet, translator, teacher, and journalist, who wrote at least one poem for every season.

Winter on the street

"Since yesterday snowflakes started falling
One by one, but now has stopped.
The clouds have taken revenge
At the sunset, but they gather above the village."

And if...

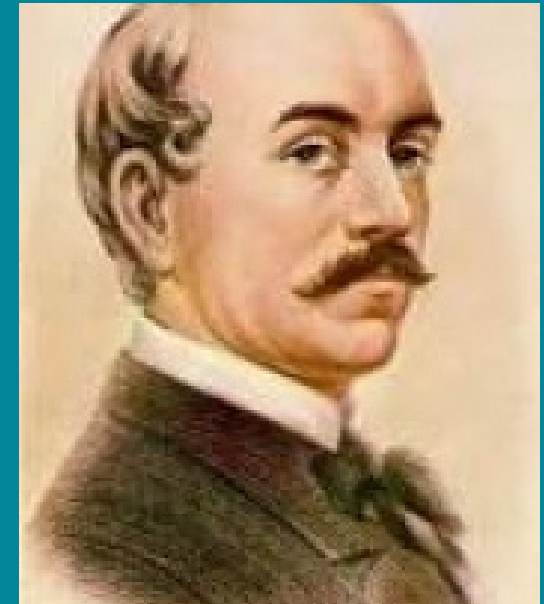

"And if the thick clouds
dissapear
If the moon rises to shine
It means I should Remember you forever"

Mihai Eminescu (1850-1889)

was the most important poetuc voice in the Romanian literature. The theme of nature, along with that of love, is prevalent in his lyrics.

Vasile Alexandri

(1821-1890)

is one of the first Romanian collectors of folklore, the nature being his inspiration in all of his lyrical works.

The legend of the -lily-of-the-valley

" 'And everlastingly I'm going to cry in painover her'

Saying, the child crying, devoid of enderment

The warm tears are changing into lilies-of-the-valley.

From then, there's no loss of fowers in heaven!"