

A traditional Croatian
breakfast

This morning I had some bread with a spicy add on called
'ajvar' and some onions and to top it all of I had 'čvarci'
with some salt.

čvarci= cracklings- roasted pork rind
Marko Pranjković, 7.c

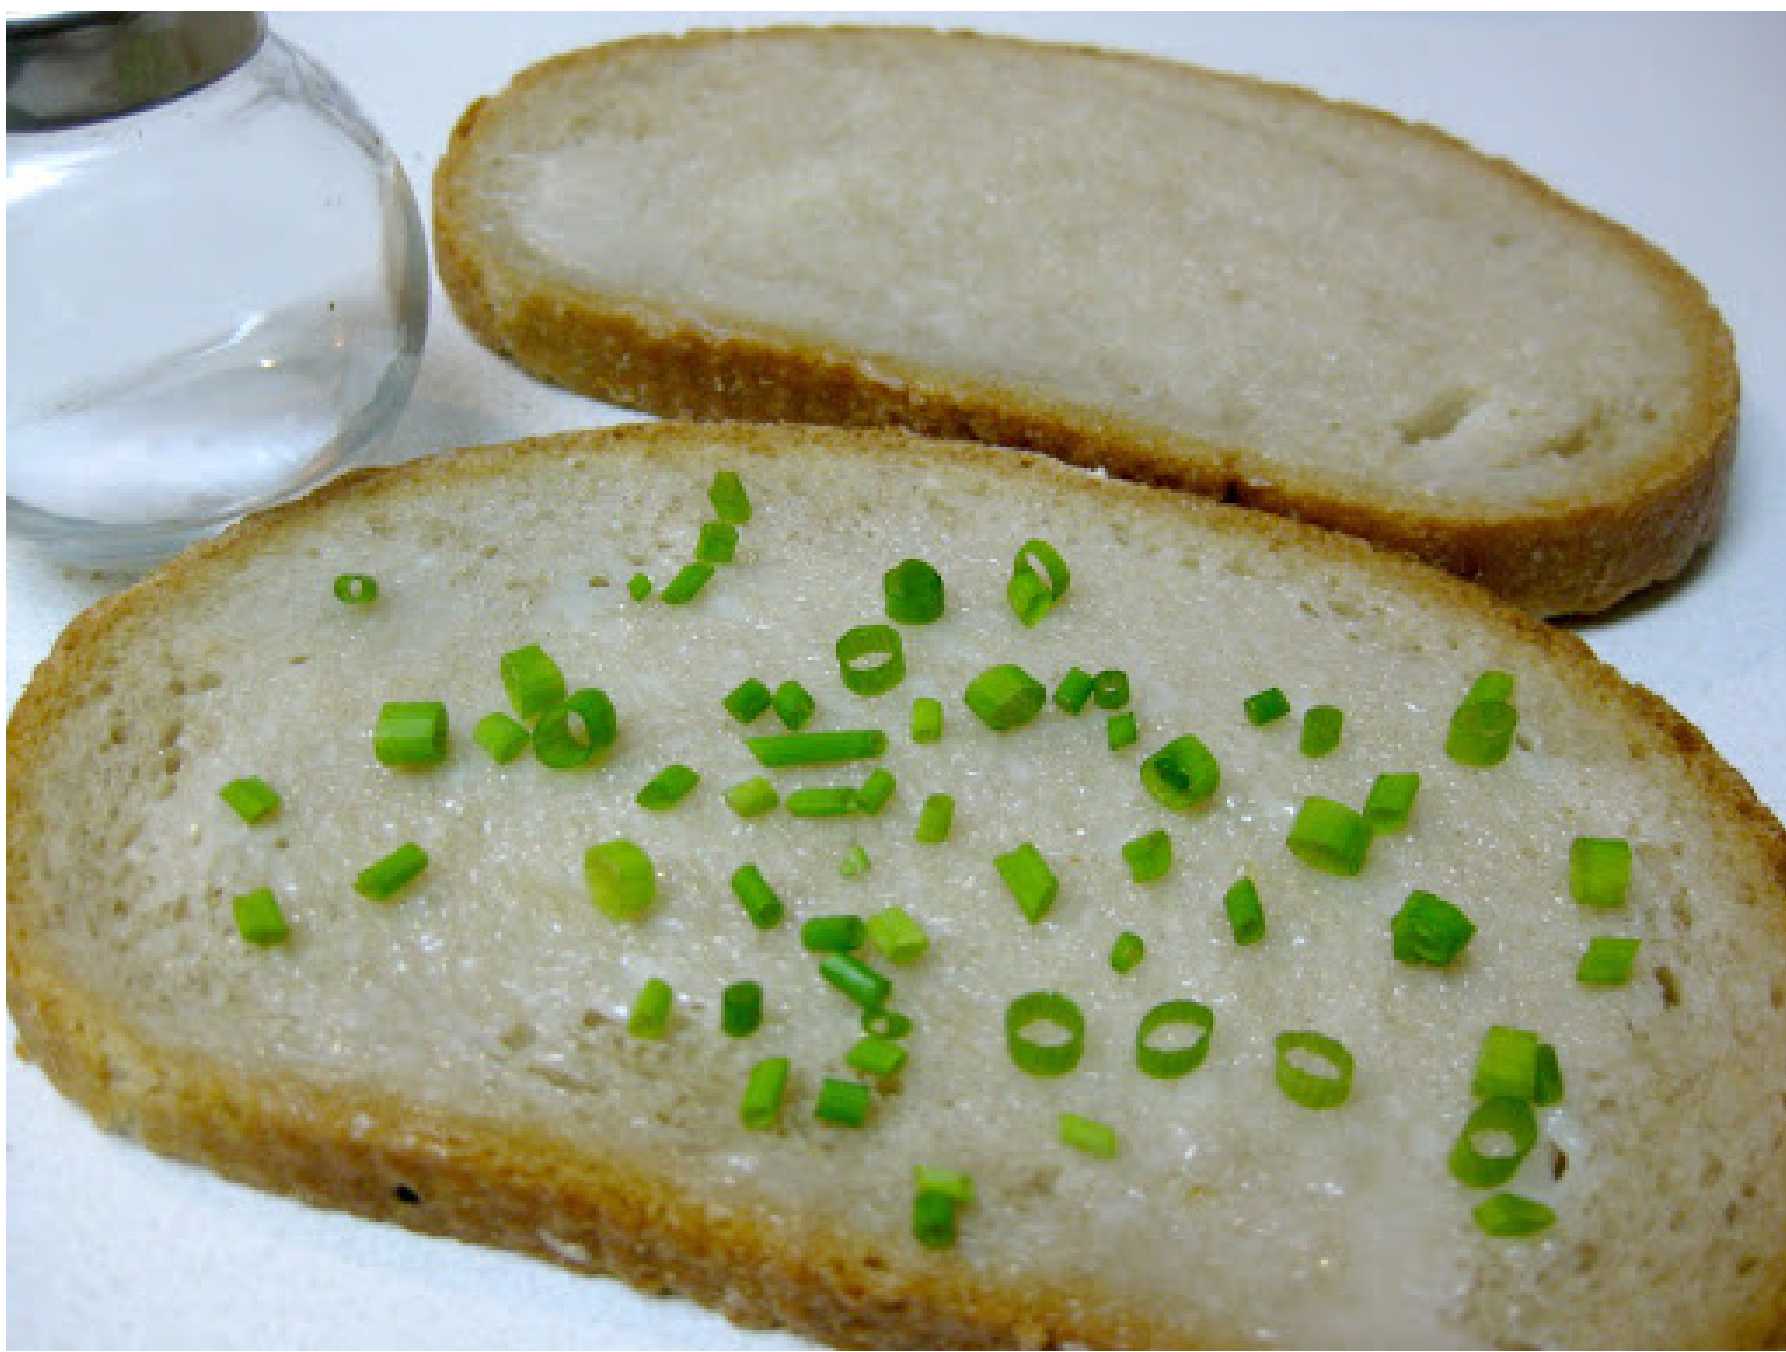

This is my breakfast. This morning I ate 'burek sa sirom' (I really don't know how to say that in English- it is a traditional cheese pie eaten in the Balkans), and drank 'Cedevita'- it is a brand name for the powder you mix with water to get juice.

Mia Čotić, 7.b

Polenta is often eaten for breakfast

People like to eat bread with lard and paprika or spring onions on top.

In winter people sometimes prepare their own meat to smoke. Blood sausages ('Krvavica') are one of those.

Cold meat cuts

