

What is discrimination?

– In plain English, to "discriminate" means to distinguish, single out, or make a distinction. In everyday life, when faced with more than one option, we discriminate in arriving at almost every decision we make. But in the context of civil rights law.

- Age
- Disability
- Ethnicity
- Gender
- Marital status
- National origin
- Race,
- Religion, and
- Sexual orientation.

Racism is far from Being a thing of the past in Spain

Racism in Spain can be traced to any historical era, whereby social, economic and political conflict has efficiently been justified through racial difference, be it is, in the sense of racism, as an ideology or as simple attitudes or behaviors towards those perceived as different.

Discrimination in Granada

- In Spain there is more discrimination towards Muslims than other cultures or ethnic groups , one of the cases is because of the yihadist attacks that have occurred during these past years.
- For example, in August 20th 2017 in Granada an attack to a mosque took place by the collective Hogar social, which is characterized as being a very racist.

Some cases...

A young woman of 20 years old is preparing to take a flight from Barcelona to London with her parents. While the rest of the passengers pass control of the airline, the girl is removed from the boarding queue. People get on board with total normality while the family is required exclusively the documentation. After several minutes, they allow the passengers to pass while the girl stands at the end the line. The girl has dark skin and wears a veil. Coincidence? I don't think so.

HEAR SOMETHING,
SAY
TAKE A STANCE AGAINST DISCRIMINATION!

“Everything happened one sunny morning in Barcelona. A friend and I were in a bank, chatting, when suddenly a police car stood next to us. One of the agents asked us to identify ourselves. We did it, and immediately as a citizen I asked the police man what was the reason. He answered that this would not have happened if I was a german tourist, then I asked if it was because of my skin color and he said yes, he did it because I was black”

Rhita's opinion

Before talking badly about someone, you always have to look at yourself. a person who discriminates, is an addition to the ignorance that he has, because if he was informed he would know that the person who is discriminating is just a person like him, obviously different, because if we are all equal the world would be a chaos, discriminate because he does not know how to look at his faults first. So instead of wasting time observing the faults of the others, we could take advantage of that time doing something more useful. Discrimination can be suffered by any person and at any time and place.

It is wrong to discriminate and, worse, when you are who discriminates. That is why it is so important that we avoid doing it.

Many times it is done without intention, because it sounds funny, or perhaps when talking one does not notice that it can make the other feels bad.

For me, the one who discriminates has a blank mind, because if he understood the equality of rights that we all possess and what human dignity means, he would not do it.

Lidia's_opinion

- In my opinion, racism is something that should not exist since it closes many doors to people. You do not have to make importance in colour, race, sexual orientation, country or different way of thinking to have opportunities to live and survive in life. We must all have the same opportunities as a person.
- Do not discriminate against anyone, my final sentence is:
- "Do not do to others what you do not like to be done to you"
