

Thursday

Thursday was a quite interesting day. We started working on our blogs and after that we were participating in two presentations with workshops:

The 1st one was held by Ivana Zovko, Member of the Committee for Quality and Coordinator for students and student rights and mag.educ.phil and hisp . and the 2nd one was done by Krešimir Krolo, docent and dr.sc. Both presentations were about social media .

While Ivana Zovko had a presentation about meanings of each type of social media and our communication through it, Krešimir Krolo, who is a sociologist, was mainly focused on fake news. During the presentation about meanings of social media, we were separated in five groups in order to give our opinion about various things on the Internet (for example: emojis, hashtags, likes). Krešimir Krolo gave us many examples of fake news, afterwards we were not separated in groups , but we had to decide among two articles which one is fake. After presentations which were interesting and through which we found out many new facts and gained some new knowledge on this kind of topic, we finished our blogs.
