Mediterranean forest

Mediterranean Forest: Forests that develop in regions with Mediterranean climate, where the Carrasco Pine predominates. This type of tree can reach the 25 meters high. It blooms in april and may, and gives many pineapples.

Viñedo

Viñedo: This type of tree almost dominated the entire agricultural area of Málaga. It is a plantation of vines used for the production of grapes and wine. This plantations were traditionally of dry land, but actually planting in rows with trellises is more frequent.
