To save the planet we have to continue to improve our attitude towards pollution questions in our daily lives such as: saving water, recycling, not throwing rubbish on the ground, industrial pollution and whenever possible using public transport. Only by carrying out these attitudes will we be able to catch up the desired neutralization of carbon gas emissions. Covid-19, despite being a terrible virus, came to help with pollution in countries that refused to take precautions to reduce pollution. However we can't ruined that and put on masks and gloves at the entrance of the houses, on the streets, on the train and subway stations, on the beach and in the parks as has already happened, because that way we are losing everything we accomplished.

Protecting Our Planet Starts with You

Reduce, reuse, and recycle. Cut down on what you throw away. Follow the three "R's" to conserve natural resources and landfill space. Volunteer. Volunteer for cleanups in your community. You can get involved in protecting your watershed, too. Educate. When you further your own education, you can help others understand the importance and value of our natural resources.

To save her, you don't throw away your rubbish out of the bin. You must recycle. In the blue bin you must put in there only paper, in green bin only glass and in yellow bin only plastic!!!

"The impact of the climate crisis is all too visible. Bushfires have killed more than 20 people in south-eastern Australia and forced thousands more to flee their homes. Floods and storms have left hundreds dead and many more destitute in Argentina, Uruguay, Zimbabwe, Mozambique and Malawi. And in the UK, record temperatures were seen last summer and this winter. Last year, people across the world took to the streets to demand governments act to slash greenhouse gas emissions. Did you watch and wonder what you could do to help the global climate movement?"

To save our planet we can contribute with simple actions such as: reduce water consumption; reduce the amount of meat and other animal products we eat; reduce the amount of energy needed to power our devices and reduce the amount of plastic by using reusable shopping bags.

Indeed, little by little we will get there. – ANÔNIMO

The planet is everything we have so we should keep it clean. Also we must be polite with her, because she gives us everything we want and we need to survive. Planet is our home. And we also have to love it with all parts of our hearts.

I think there are some steps that could help people to improve the things. The first that we are able to do is to change the way of life. In my opinion, we should begin with something very simple. For example, start using public transport instead of our cars, we can use glass and wood instead of plastic, it will be effective if people organize planting of the trees and renovation of the parks.

"We are the first generation to know we're destroying the world, and we could be the last that can do anything about it. Speaking up is one of the most powerful things you can do especially if it's to the right people. Talk to your MP. Tell them to commit to action to protect our natural world.

Contact the brands you buy from and get them to tell you how their products are sourced. Use social media – this is one of the most effective ways to get brands to listen to you, so tell them that you want a change.

It's not just about speaking to the people in charge. Talk to your friends, neighbours and colleagues and get them to make positive changes too. Speak up, speak to everyone, and make your voice heard (...)"

We all need to keep our planet clean.

We should not pollute it and we must take care of it, because it is ours home.

We all have to be responsible and collect waste separately, as this will help reduce pollution.
