19. What are the best aspects of the project? What would you improve in a future project?

69 responses

The best aspect is the project itself because let you to improve your English but we can improve in the organization in general.

I personally think that knowing people from other countries is helpful to have a thought open-minded. In a future project I would give more than a week to spent abroad

One of the best aspect of the project was certainly the quality of the lessons, they weren't absolutely boring, and also the outdoor activities. I don't have any suggestions about the improvement of a future project

according to me the best part was to know different people and their traditions. in a future project I will improve my skills in public speaking that is useful in my life

The best aspects of this project is to compare different cultures and try to learn something from these different culture and try to teach yours to your European friends. Maybe we could stay longer in the country we visited.

Organisation in transport

The best aspects are, of course, knowing new people, different cultures and different countries. The project also helped me being more confident, working with other people, and improved my speaking and debating skills. In a future project, I would like that we had more time to spend with the other students. We had too little time with the German and Slovenian students and, because of that, we bonded only at the end of the trip.

The discovery of new cultures, I didn't know before and the atmosphere of international friendship created by the project are probably the best aspects of this experience.

The best aspect for me is definitely getting to know new people and making experiences with them!

For me it would have been better if we had the opportunity to apply for this project by ourselves. Since our teachers have done it without asking, we had no opportunity to decide whether we want to participate or not. The project itself is great, but only for people who do it voluntarily.

The best aspect of the project was to learn about another person's habits and learn to accept them

I think that this project is great and thanks to it you can improve your English and you can meet new people and visit new places. You can learn new traditions and culture. I think in a future project there's nothing to improve because it's already perfect.

I really enjoyed meeting up with all the people from Italy, Slovenia and Poland! It was great to have the chance to visit Slovenia where I had never been before. However, I didn't only get to know the Slovenian culture a little better but gained an insight into the world of debating. I appreciate the workshops we could take part in and I can really tell that I've learnt a lot about it. The only thing to criticize is that some parts of the project weren't as well-organised as the others.

Best: Being able to communicate with others in English to improve and certainly, visiting different places in an unknown country. Improvement: Informing the students beforehand, if specific devices for a project are needed.

The best aspects were the ones, that taught me more about the other countries. Actually I wouldn't change anything about the project in future.

It was great to meet new people from other countries and to learn so much about public speaking.

The best aspect was meeting and connecting with people with different backgrounds; we got a chance of bonding and getting to know them in a really practical and unforgettable way that managed to bring total strangers close.

The thing that made me the most satisfied was being able to associate with people from other countries face to face. Also valuable thing for me is speaking in public. Though I haven't take part in debates, I had to try speaking up in front of my school mates. I have no clue what can be improved in next similar projects.

Improving the ability to speak in an alternative language and meetings with people from other countries. In future projects I would add more group projects.

Meet amazing people and learn new interesting things

The main aspect is the improvement of Language skills and the increase in personal independence.

I would socialize international groups more:)

Meeting new people and getting to know their country.

Meeting new people, their cultures, having fun with them

Meeting new people, learning about other cultures, gaining new experience, improving my German a lot. I would not change anything.

In my opinion it was a great project. Not only because you could improve your English knowledge, but also to become more confident and to vouch for yourself and to believe in yourself!!! Furthermore I've learned that I don't have to be scared of making mistakes, because nobody is perfect.

I think it was very well prepared. But I think for the future it would be better when we would do more for the debate in this country and a little less sightseeing the whole day. I liked that we had the chance to meet students from other countries and got to experience how they live their everyday life in school and at home. I think what could be improved is including more possibilities to meet everyone on the exchange, for example working in more different teams.

Best aspects were the hanging out with people from other countries and sharing cultural experiences. I would slightly reduce the amount of stress because of high-stakes competitions and thus also increase the amount of sleep the participants get.

The best aspect is going abroad and meeting new people there. I think that in the future the duration of exchange could be a little longer, so the participants would have more time to practice their speaking and debating skills.

So far, I have had three chances to live abroad for more than a week. I can definitely say that actually living with a local gives an individual a whole new perspective on culture, cuisine, even politics. However, I guess this is not really something that is exclusive to this project. All in all, I ought to mention the love for debates that I have acquired in this rather short period of time. I always used to think that debating meant having a strong opinion on a particular subject, and now I have learnt that it is rather about reasoning and underpinning an idea. Also, I absolutely loved my correspondent, she is an amazing person. Furthermore, to be completely honest. I do not want to say that the project was perfect, because everything has its faults. It was certainly exhausting, but we went in knowing it would be. But now, looking back, what stayed with me were the good memories, so even though that there were certainly things that bothered me during the exchanges, I have nothing to say right now. One last thing. I would like to thank every single person that participated, especially all the teachers. I could not be more grateful. :)

For me the best aspects of a project is the deep contact that you create with other people that improve every area of you person: you become more confident, you improve your English and you know new cultures and I am happy to say that I found them in the Erasmus project.

My favourite part about the project was meeting people from all over the world, however I would organize more activities in mixed groups so that we could get to know more people, not only friends' of our hosts.

The best aspect of the project was just an opportunity to spend time together with people from abroad. With different culture, different language, different habits but with the smile on face and willing to talk in English.

Ability to meet people from abroad and speak with them in English. Debating experience. In a future project I would see students as more individuals than a group and give each of them exercise adequate to their personality and English level.

getting the chance to get to know new people, improving my presentation skills and to learn how to debate meeting new friends, learning to use the language English better

There are just a few things working not out as they should. One of those was time management. The other points which were set in the project description were successfully explained. Also everyone had an extreme increase of knowledge about the exchange countries (at least where I was). The project was fun.

I think almost everything was great just sometimes it was too stressful

I like, that I got to make so many great, new friends. I learned about new topics such as public speaking and helpful skills to use. I think, that organisatory stuff could be improved.

Meeting new people and learning about the different cultures and sharing experiences with them ; I would have liked a less competitive atmosphere

The best of the project are the lovely people I got to know.

The best aspect of the project is meeting all the people of other countries.

I'll definitely remember all little trips, chats till late hours and experiencing new culture together

THE BEST ASPECT IS POSSIBILITY TO LEARN MORE ABOUT EUROPEAN COUNTRIES, LEARN ABOUT THEIR TRADITIONS

Learning about both cultures, meeting a lot of amazing people.

Learning about other cultures, meeting new people and practicing debating.

The people we met.

The best was meeting so many new people with similar interests and also the experience of living with another family, with different culture, was the one to remember. I found all the preparations for the debate very useful and fun (the ones that we had in separate teams in Poland). The only recommendation I have is that I would emphasise debating skills a bit more in the first two mobilities, and also to do something that students wouldn't feel as much pressure to be absolutely the best before the competition.

Best aspect was probably the exploration of an unknown city, and the way debates were handled was bad, during the actual debate only a few people got to debate

Meeting new people and cultures was the best part

I loved meeting new people from around the world and also from my country. It was also amazing to get to see and be a part of a different culture for a few days. I would maybe improve the organization of the debate...

The best aspect of the project was being able to experience the culture of a foreign country in a way that was interesting and fun, while also learning some useful skills and meeting people from different countries. There might be some room for improvement in terms of organisation.

More activities to get to know people from other countries and less debating.

Meeting new people, making connections, traveling and generally just having fun :)

More free time and better organisation.

I would let them have classes with us.

People

Getting to know people from abroad, traveling to foreign countries and speaking a lot of English were the best aspects of this project. Sometimes I was a bit annoyed, because the Website was a bit confusing, but we've managed it, together with our teachers.

New friends and improving foreign language skills

It was great. I wouldn't change anything.

Getting to know different cultures and people getting to know interesting people and their culture

The best aspects of the project are being able to learn and improve upon skills. These skills are all very useful in my everyday life and I imagine will always be. From simpler knowledge like of the English language, we also acquired debating and presenting skills and also looked at them further in depth.

Exchange should be longer than 10 days:)

Meeting new people was great

Time management

Meeting new people, exchanging experiences, better knowledge (about public speaking, argumentation, different cultures), visiting new places
