

PEER LEARNING

As we are going to an exchange, we had to endeavour for that. Our task was to help younger students. Some homework, a text to help to write... First I thought, well that is going to be boring but, it happened to not be like that at all. I was helping a group of pupils from the age 6 to 8 and first I thought, o little kids. But contrary to my first belief, I met them a lot better than I thought i will. They are quite capable speakers, not just a group of little kids that want to senselessly shout. Sometimes they were very fun in deed. In my case, that was especialy interesting as i came to the school in which i am now, from its subsidiary and in these few years as i am here, i´ve kind of forgot about that place. But now i again met that place and it is very nostalgic. I think that this was a really nice experience.
