

This is our town Kópavogur in Iceland

Leikskólinn Furugrund

Erasmus+

The name of the town literally means Seal pup bay. The town coat of arms contains the profile of Kópavogskirkja a local church and a seal pup underneath.

Although some people think it looks like a stormtrooper from Star wars

Kópavogur is Iceland's second largest town, with a population of 33.000. It lies south of Reykjavík and is part of the Greater Reykjavík area.

In Kopavogur we have a very good public library, a concert hall, a modern art museum and a small natural history museum.

We can take the children to the library once a week for story time, where the librarians read to them.

In Kopavogur we have two geothermally heated outdoor and indoor swimmingpools.

Iceland

Bláa lónið - blue lagoon

Gullfoss and Geysir

Photo source: <http://wallpapersdownloads.net>

Seljalandsfoss and Skógarfoss

Snæfellsnes

Jökulsárlón

