We had a dream....

We were travelling to by plane to the elven country.

We visited many places and met welcoming people.

We discovered a surprising society with deep values.

In the main town, for its hundredth birthday, a central building had been built...

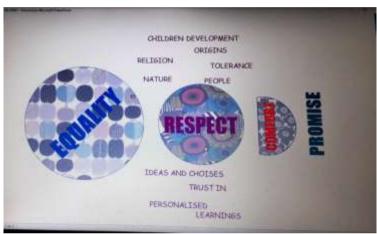

Oody was the name of this Central library. Here are its 4 values.

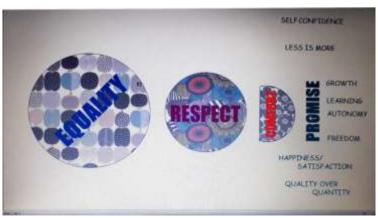

What was striken was the fact we noticed again these 4 arguments in the schools we visited later.

In our dream we all noticed there were many contrasts...

old buildings the South team work ... and their opposites modern and design buildings the North individuel work

Despite all these contrasts this society has succeed in mixing these opposites and finding its own way of life. This inspired us.

In our suitcase, we will bring back:

And our new motto at school would have been as following:
