9. Explain your answer in pt.8

I really like distance to law rules when not necessary (walking on red light passing zebras); openness; culture; appreciating high art, reading etc.

I was impressed with the lifestyle of people in Versailles - children, teenagers and adults riding their scooters (trotinètes), bikes... to work/ school.
 People, in general, were very nice. Parents and teachers in school were hospitable and welcoming. At the weekend families were enjoying the good weather, having picnics and walking in the park. People still go shopping in traditional markets. Loved the food market and the flower market
 Beautiful monuments, buildings and museums.
 Good food (although expensive).

I got in touch with French parents, who were really kind and very helpful. I loved to talk to French teachers, they were always very helpful, too and we had very nice exchange of ideas and very good moments together. I believe French teachers are great in organizing mobilities and dealing with unexpected situations.

Visit to France was first time for me, that's why the visit was very interesting

The French are hospitable people and the country is beautiful itself

Every new visit to France adds something new to the experience. Sad we didn't have as many cultural aspects discovered as wished.

I would like to thank Blandine, the rest of the French team, parents, other teachers and school staff for the warm welcome and perfect organization. Very good atmosphere. Loved every moment spent in Versailles.

I would like to congratulate the whole team for their effort: they really did a good job!

Sad that we were not have plan of week before we arrived
