

READING UNDER THE TREETOPS

Let's Read Together under the Treetops – workshop at our school gazebo, a reading corner in an open-air classroom.

Students read their own stories in their native languages to let other participants know about their richness and diversity.

Furthermore, each country should prepare and bring both digital and physical poster about the book we are reading in Twinreaders.

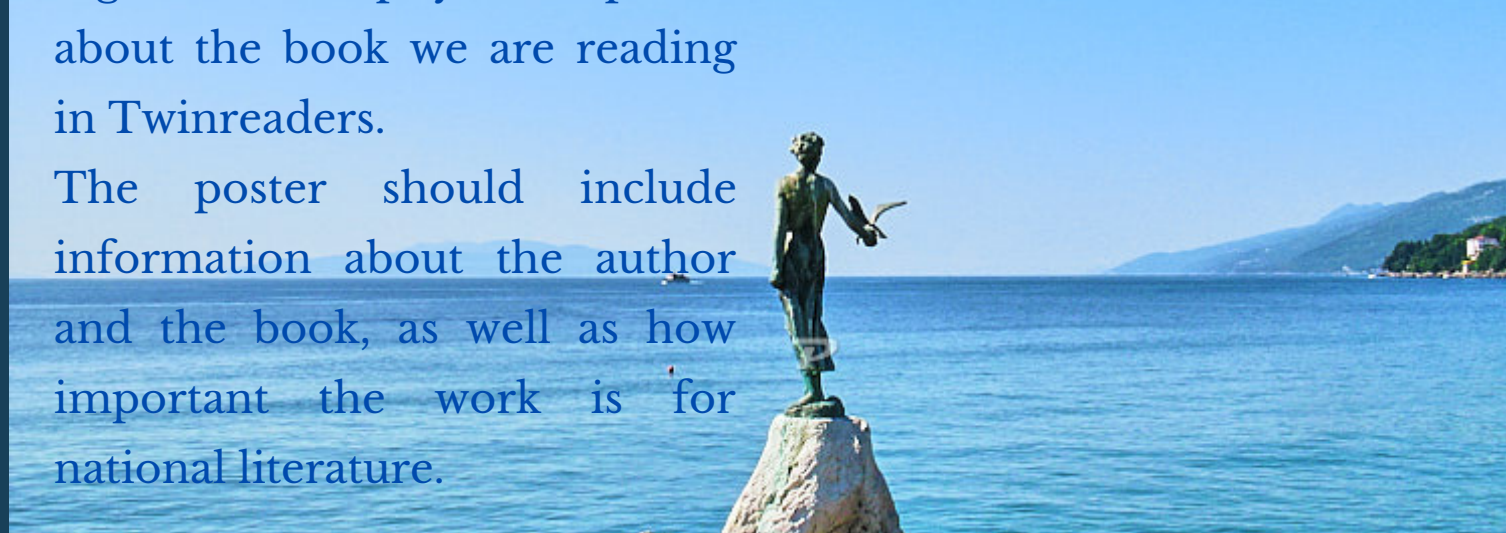

The poster should include information about the author and the book, as well as how important the work is for national literature.

WHAT DO YOU HAVE TO PREPARE BEFORE COMING TO RIJEKA?

Let's go! Enjoy!

Each country will present the posters during the workshop as well.

There will be exhibition in the library. Everyone will write a short story, a few sentences about how a certain object has got into your family.

We hope that your contribution will enrich our exhibition and remind you of your family past.

1. READING THE PAST, CREATING THE FUTURE

Our aim is to emphasize the importance of the past when it comes to growing up and forming our personality, therefore the idea is to record your family stories.

We would like you to bring some very old thing such as an old candlestick, a coffee grinder, or photos, jewelry boxes, etc... Of course, something you can take on a plane.

It would be great if these items stayed with us forever, as part of permanent Reading the Past, Creating the future exhibition. However, if you are sentimentally attached to your belongings, then we will just exhibit them during your stay, take photos, and return them to you.
