

METHOD OF CONSERVATION

FREEZING

Freezing is a preservation technique whose purpose is to bring the food to very low temperatures, with consequent solidification of the water present inside the food.

There are two types of freezing: slow and rapid.