SPANISH CULTURE AND TRADITIONS

Spain is an extravagant country if you stay there like a tourist. We have some habits that surprise other countries:

-Our timetable: Later compared to the other countries of Europe.

-"Go for tapas": Tapas are a common activity made in Spain, it is a curious hobby because you go from a place to another to eat little portions of food. It came from the king Alfonso X and it could be declared world Heritage.

-The mediterranean diet: We use olive oil in almost of our meals, the spanish diet is also listed as one of the best in world followed by the asiatic.

But if something prevails in Spain is our good humor and the way to see the world so optimistic.

Facts and Myths about Spain

Paula Santos and Álvaro Iniesta

We all have black hair, dark eyes and brown skin

True or false?

That's not true

There are spanish people who are blond, with blue eyes and white skin, like Elsa Pataky.

We take a nap everyday

True or false?

That's not true

Unfortunately we don't.

Most of the people are working at this time, so the only ones who can take it are the retirees and little children.

We all love bullfights

True or false?

That's not true

Like in everyplace, there are people who like watching this “show”, but there are also lots of people who disagree with bullfights

Tradition vs Culture

We say hello with two kisses

True or false?

That's true

It's very normal in Spain to kiss someone even if you don't know them.

It's just politeness.

Paella is our typical meal

True or false?

That's not true

Paella is the typical meal from the east part of Spain but, our most well-known dish is the spanish omelette.

We dance “flamenco”

True or false?

That’s not true

It’s very typical to hear it but only in the south part of Spain.

You won’t see anybody in the north trying to practice this type of dance.
