

Letters from the past...

Hi there! This letter was written in 2014 in Norway. I was forced into writing this letter to the future, by my teacher Tove Solli because this is what we do in school. If you would ask me, I'd say that this is a complete waste of time that does not teach me anything in particular. Aren't we at school to learn? Every Monday I have to sit 2 extra hours at my crappy wooden chair in front of this PC with a headache, writing this letter for some people in the future to dig it up.

I mean that's a cool idea, but someone will most likely pick it up in like what, 5 years? And where I live, no one speaks proper English and this is one of those letters in the book that most likely NO ONE will understand. Not for at least 200 years in this town. It has a population of 4000 people now, I think... Well...Anyways

Right now there's not much going on in the world, there are some wars still, terrorist groups doing what terrorists do and the infamous virus Ebola going around killing most of the population in Africa. Still a lot of conspiracy theories about Illuminati, The landing in the moon back in 1969 and Walt Disney something...

Most drugs are illegal everywhere, but some drugs are legal some places. People are fighting to make weed/cannabis legal almost everywhere.

Technology is pretty expensive relative to the money the item(s) is worth. 1 gram of weed costs about 10$ or maybe 20$ if it is top notch quality. The Iphone 6+ just came out (mobile phone) and it costs about 8,800 Norwegian kroner.

Merry Christmas and a happy new year!