

Dear future reader

Hi my name is William and I am a 14 year old boy. I was born in Oslo and now I live in Selbu. On my spare time I like to be with my friends. In the weekend we go out to have fun with all the others and we drink. I live with my two small siblings Odin and Cassandra and my mom and dad. My two siblings are one boy and one girl, Odin and Cassandra. Odin is 10 and his interests are football and baking different things. Cassandra is 9 and her activities are to play with dolls and Tae-Kwon-Do. I enjoy my siblings company, sometimes I choose that over to go out and drink.

I really like music. I like all kinds of music almost, except country and heavy metal. I like various artist but my FAVOURITE artist of all time is Beyoncé. I don't know why, I just love her so much and everything she does.

Today has been a pretty normal day, I woke up around 7 (or I should have woke up then). I always put on the snooze button until last minute, even though there is nothing worse than to have bad time in the morning, agree? Anyway I usually don't eat breakfast. I am not anorectic or anything, I just never have the time or hunger to eat in the morning so I get dressed and shower (if I have time) then straighten my hair and do my face and put on fragrance and then I go say hi to my family before I go to the bus. On Mondays we have 8 hours of school instead of just 6 because of our electives. And then when the day is over I just go home because I'm so tired so I don't even bother to go to a friend or something.

My dreams are very different, some are to meet Beyonce and some are to have perfect grades and be a lawyer or a doctor, and someday have my own family and someday my own job and income and be able to take care of me and my family.

Yours truly
