

Unknown fellow people of the future, the condition and survival of the earth are in your hands now. Truth is, we didn't inherit this land from our parents, we just borrowed it from the future generations, from you. There was a point that we realized that our actions that were so insensitively done, had bad serious and even irreversible consequences to the environment. This is a sorry and a thank you, for now is your turn to bear the responsibility of reserving your natural heritage, the earth.

Evangelia Papadopoulou