

Alice Cangioli

Since I've started the project Erasmus I've gained more confidence in myself, more spirit of initiative and I've become more independent.

It has been an opportunity to know other people from my school and to share our ideas and mentalities.

Erasmus is also something not open to everybody, people who attend it have been chosen based on their skills and this is a satisfaction to me.

This project allows teenagers to travel to different countries and this is a big responsibility and requires huge maturity, so I'm happy that we are considered as such. I'm excited to know people that share the same interests as me or with different thoughts that will be able to teach me new things and make me see the world differently.
