BRIEF GAME DESCRIPTION / GAME TYPE/GOAL	It is a board game in which the players have to answer general knowledge questions .
PLAYERS (number, age)	2-6 players. +16
CONTENT (What do you need to play?)	You need a board, a wheel, a dice and 6 cheese-shaped chips. Also the deck of cards with the questions and then the answers. There are six categories of questions: Literature, Geography, History, Science, Entertainment and Sports.
RULES (explain the different steps)	Players start in the center of the wheel. They roll the dice in order and move their cheese-shaped chips in the direction they choose, the number of boxes indicated by the dice. After moving the token, another player takes a card from the deck and asks the player who has moved the token a question that corresponds to the color of the square to which the token has gone. If the player answers it correctly, he can roll the dice again. If the box is one of the special boxes located at the intersection, you get one of the six wedges of the color of the box, if you have not already achieved it. If the player responds incorrectly, the turn passes to the next game. The game continues until a player gets the six-color cheeses and goes to the center. Once he arrives there the player must answer a final question, whose color the rivals choose. If he answers it correctly, he wins the game. If not, continue playing until someone gets it.
WHEN DOES A GAME END?	The game ends when a player completes his wheel and answers the last question.
ASSESSMENT (What did you like? / What didn't you like? Why?)	We like this game because it is a game to think and because we can play it with many friends. We don't like the fact that some questions are very difficult.
