Once upon time, there as a crocodile who was lovely but no one wanted him, everyone thought he was a bad guy, but deep down he had a big heart. What he wanted the most in this world was to have friends.

One day, he was walking through the forest when he found a cat and a dog fighting. The crocodile, who hated to see people arguing, intervened in the argument.

The fight was because the cat had taken the dog's ball, and it was his favourite!! The crocodile who also had a ball with him, gave it to the cat so that he also had a ball.

After the argument, already solved; they introduced themselves:

-Hello!! I am Pepe, the crocodile.

-Hi!! I am Ludo the dog.

-Nice name!! I am Jim, the cat.

Later, they went home together and they saw that they were neighbours!! Every morning, they went to ride their bikes to the park.

These 3 created a great friendship and every day they were there to spend time together and talk about their things.

Pepe the Crocodile was happy, he finally had friends, some really good friends. The day of Ludo's birthday, they went to restaurant to celebrate it, where they found a chef.

After the meal, Ludo opened his presents:

Pepe gave Ludo a big blue and violet ball and Jim gave him a special voucher for a dog spa.

After this, they spoke with the chef:

-Hello!!

-Hello!! How was the food?

-Very tasty, delicious, the best!!

-When will you come back?

-Tomorrow, we are delighted with this restaurant.

-Would you like to work here?

-Of course, thanks!!!!

-Great!! We will be back tomorrow!!

The 4 became very good friends, so good friends that they changed the name of the restaurant. The new name was "The 3 and the Chef".

Finally, they were very very good friends and their food became so good and so popular that they won 2 Michelin stars and they had a TV show about cooking.

They became famous and they won a lot of money. They bought a big house to live together.
