

Collaborative Stories

→ Characters and compulsory words by: Action Heroes (Portugal)

→ Story written by: League of Legends (Croatia)

A Rainy day

It was raining hard the whole day.

Goofy decided to stay at home and watch TV. But, something was on his mind; something bothered him and made him nervous. He couldn't just sit and do nothing. "I have to do something, I'm bored", he thought.

He took a piece of paper and a pencil, and decided to draw. "What should I draw? I can't imagine anything". But somehow, miraculously, a pencil started to draw lines and shapes. Goofy hadn't done anything. He just watched and couldn't believe it. "For sure, this is a magic pen!" he thought.

In a short time, the drawing was finished. Goofy looked at it. On a piece of paper there were two manly figures. They looked familiar. He had seen them before. "OMG, they are my Action Man figures", he shouted. And then he remembered... Yesterday when he went to his work, he brought his Action Man figures with him. He is working as a gravedigger at the local cemetery; he must have dropped them when he was digging, because they weren't in his bag when he returned home. "They are in that horrible place right now" he thought, "I must go there to pick them up".

Goofy took his coat and umbrella and rushed out. At the gates, he parked his car on the parking ramp. "I must look for them really quickly or I'll get soaked." He ran from one grave to another looking for them. Finally, he saw them. They were covered in mud.

He picked them up and ran to his car. When he got home, he cleaned them. "I knew something was wrong, fortunately the magic pencil reminded me of them, and I managed to save my precious Action Man figures. Now I can watch TV."

It was raining hard outside. Goofy made a sandwich, sat in his chair and watched cartoons all day.

The End