

Collaborative Stories

→ Characters and compulsory words by: The Fighters (Portugal)

→ Story written by: Dimensions (Spain)

The Trophy

Once upon a time, there was a man named Joker who had green hair and a very pale face. Joker had a farm, with many animals. He had dogs, sheep, cats, goats, cows, pigs, ducks and loads of others.

One day, it was February 13th to be more precise, the postman made a strange delivery – it was a letter inside a rissole, and that letter was an invitation to the “Animals’ National Holiday” event.

Joker decided to take his pig Pepe and his duck Maria. When they arrived in Madrid (where the event was taking place) he went to visit the Santiago Bernabeu Stadium because he is a huge fan of Real Madrid, but he lost track of the time and got to the contest a bit late. When he arrived there, he presented his animals to the “Best Animals in Spain” jury.

The trophy was really funny – it was shaped like a rucksack with a dog, a cat and a goat, all made of gold, as if they were inside the rucksack. When the jury, Eduardo Ronaldo and Alejandro Messi, were about to give the verdict of the contest, Joker went to the toilet and did not know that his duck and his pig, had won the contest. Therefore, they had to give the trophy to other animals.

When Joker got back and found out about what had happened, he began to cry and cry, until a girl named Cristina Shayk, went to him and wiped his tears with a handkerchief. The minute he set eyes on Cristina, he fell in love with her! He hadn’t won the trophy, but he had found the love of his life.

A week later Cristina and Joker got married and had a beautiful party, and the following year they had a child.

Joker and Cristina’s child was called Joshua. Time went by and Joshua grew up to be a fine young man with a dream - to create a zoo in New York, in the middle of Central Park.

A few years later, Donald Frump called Joshua and offered him a project that was to build a zoo in Central Park, and Joshua immediately accepted the project.

Joshua’s zoo treated animals very well and was the most popular zoo in the United States. His were the finest animals in the world! Joshua’s parents were really proud and they all lived happily ever after.