

Bee's boxes

An interview from a student with the orderer, beekeeper Volker Mehne and the teacher ,Ingrid Huber:

Beekeeping CUM NATURA.

Mrs. Huber says:

The schoolgirls and schoolboys have worked fantastically. So we have many boxes in one week created. Everybody has made his work. Everybody was diligent and all had always had a good motivation.

Volker Mehne says:

I can completely count on Astrid Lindgren - school. The work is finished tip masthead. Sometimes I come not at all fast enough with the supplies of material behind, I am very much contented and we will further work together in future.

Around the successful cooperation to celebrate, a small receipt took place on the 17th of March for the beekeepers from the surroundings. Mr. Mehne thanked him to diligent workers. On the left in the picture of the business partners of Volker Mehne, Stefan Kumm, spend for the celebration his superior Honigsecco (champagne). Together one saw himself a film " Bees in" , the student café entertained with to tasty morsels.

Lukas says: The biohoneycombs are thin and slightly breakable. I have taken for a ride the honeycombs in the frame and have laid the wax records quite carefully in the slit. The wax record is quite thin. Then I lay the frames to Patrick on the table. Jessica says: I insert the ready frames in the bee's boxes. Dominique Kornexl, student from the BSIK – outreachclass in the professional school Kehl.

Ibrahim says: We carry the full boxes with the frames on the hall and stack them to a high tower!

Our standard work for the bees

Students of the occupational school step have inserted from January to June always two days in the weeks for Hesselhurster Volker Mehne, beekeeper the biocountry CUM NATURA, wax honeycombs in bee's boxes. Hundreds of boxes and thousands of honeycombs were produced in standard work cleanly and to the full satisfaction of the principal.

Everybody who have co-operated in this great project was diligent and contently with the order.

This project is ongoing. For every box the school earn 3,--€

Written by Dominique and Abdullah

