

PLACE OF WOMEN IN TURKEY (Sevinç) In Turkey, the issue of women's rights has come to the fore since the middle of the 19th century in parallel with the developments in the Western world. Women met the scientific world for the first time in 1922. With the "Tevhid-i Tedrisat Law" (Learning Union) on March 3, 1924, girls and boys have equal rights. In 1934, women were granted the right to vote and be elected.

PLACE OF WOMEN IN THE WORLD(Elif)As the number of women receiving education increased, the place and importance of women in society increased. The number of women in business life increased significantly every year. Women raise educated generations by getting education. The aim of all societies is to provide equality to women in every sense and to protect them from the pressure and violence of primitive forces.

PROBLEMS(Gülay)

Today, problems such as femicides, violence against women, inequality between men and women, child marriages, different wage policies at workplaces, inequality in education, transportation, employment, birth health and rights, and sexual discrimination are some of the problems they face.

PLACE OF WOMEN IN GREECE (KORINA)
In the larger cities of Greece, such as Athens, women have a more integrated role in society and the community, than that, in the rural areas.
Unfortunately, femicides have been the dominating issue in Greece's news stories and local conversation, lately. Moreover, in the early months of 2021, Greeks witnessed the national breakout of the #MeToo Movement, after a Greek gold medalist accused a high-standing official in the Hellenic Sailing Federation of sexually assaulting her almost 20 years ago.
