

CASTLE

Once upon a time, there was a Castle. In that castle there was a King, a Queen and a Prince living there. The Prince wasn't happy. He didn't like to be a Prince, because he wanted to be a normal person.

The prince didn't have any friends because in the castle there lived only a Queen, a King and the servants. Normally the Prince looked through the window all day. From the window he could see children playing in the other island. The Prince felt alone and sad. So, he decided to ask his parents to go to the other island to play with the children. His parents said no, because it was dangerous. Time passed and the Prince felt sadder and sadder and alone.

The next day he decided to escape from the castle. He swam to the other island. When he arrived to the island he was hosted by a poor woman. Although she was a poor woman she raised him like a prince.

Then he grew up and got married with a beautiful woman. Later, he became the king of that island, and everybody respected and liked him as a king.