

CASTLE

In the eyes of everyone, this castle is normal, a typical abandoned castle, but this isn't true.

Catherine Cooper was a princess, but not a traditional princess. She wanted to travel around the world and she didn't want to be locked in a castle forever. When she told her father, James II, her plans, he laughed at her and said that the next month she would marry Charles IV. Catherine started to cry and ran away. She climbed up to the tallest tower of the castle and screamed "If I can't be free, it's better to die". Then she jumped and killed herself.

Some people say, that after her death, Catherine's ghost fulfilled her dream: to get to know the whole world.