

Zaborowski family

In Kamienica Królewska where I live, there lives a family of Zaborowski. They have been making pots, figurines and a lot of articles from clay for many years. It's a family business. It's all handmade they don't use machines. Their products often have Kashubian patterns. Each of their handmade product is unique, because they put all their emotions and feelings in the process of creation. I think some of these figurines can be an excellent gift from the Kashubia.
