

Ventspils. Founded over 700 years ago, Ventspils is one of Latvia's oldest ports, and the smell of the sea and the wind blowing through your hair are constant reminders of the maritime heritage. The riverside promenade is rich in interesting monuments, and the city is sprinkled with reminders of the Cow Parades, in which artists imaginatively decorate bovine figures. Some are auctioned for charity but over two dozen remain to bring colour and joy to the streets. Ventspils is a busy and hardworking port, but there are also tons of things for kids to enjoy. The Castle of the Livonian Order is a beautifully restored 13th century structure where you can learn about the dramatic history of Ventspils and enjoy art exhibitions and concerts.

Day 4. Wednesday 16th

The Castle of the Livonian order.

Ventspils Creativity House Planetarium and Observatory.

My impressions about the day:

M. B. B.

We visited a lot that day. I liked very much and most in the planetarium was great. Visiting the castle was okay.

We were also in the park, which was very nice.

This day was great, one of the better ones, only that it was far from the best family.
