BATAJNICA

- Some historians believe that the fall in Batajnica settlement from the Bronze Age, as evidenced by the excavations of the Danube in Batajnica fields.
- Most reliable information is that Batajnica inhabited around 1725. In a report from 1753 stated that the Batajnica small village, which had about 90 wealthy elder, or households.
- After the abolition of the military border in the village was established cooperatives that introduced local people to work together to do so very much. The cooperative in 1912 had 52 members.

- The settlement in its current form, bordered by the main streets and crossroads caused the return of border guards from duty in the Military Border.

The city has received early primary education, which initially ran only male deca.Škola was founded in 1708.

In the early 19th century, the village counted 157 houses and had 1366 inhabitants.

- Besides Batajnica highway passes for Novi Sad and an important railway line, according to Šid and Novi Sad on one side and to Belgrade on the other side.

Just passing through the village main road is narrow and crowded.

According to the census of 2002 Batajnica had about 38000 stanovnika. Teritorijalno belongs to the municipality of Zemun.
