

Evaluation of the second mobility (Spain)

On the final day of the mobility the students filled out a survey in which they evaluated the week.

The aims of the Project "In CC" are clear and relevant.

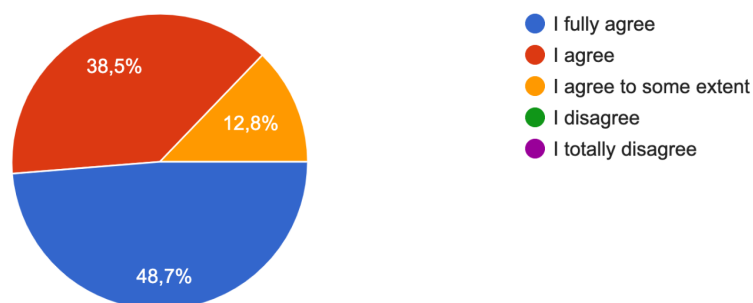

39 svar

To most of the students the aims of the project are clear. However, the diagram shows that a few students are still unsure. Before next mobility, teachers should strive to clarify this.

The programme of the mobility was interesting and well balanced.

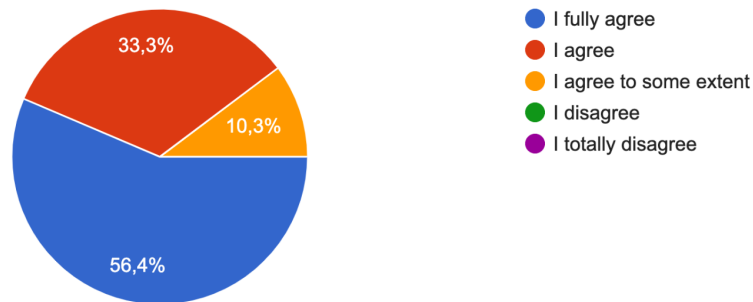

39 svar

Roughly 85 % of the students thought that the program was interesting and relevant. All in all, we can conclude that the week's agenda was successful.

I have learnt a lot about the project topic: "Culture and Mobility in Europe"

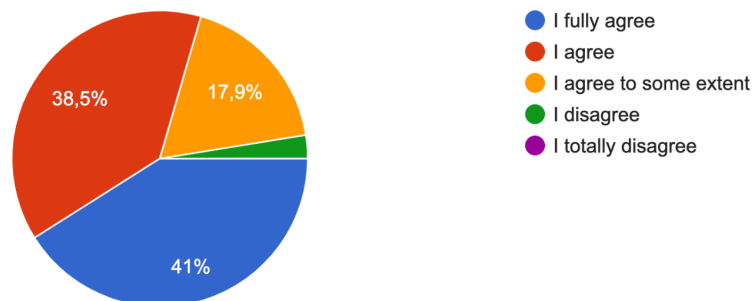

39 svar

Most students learned many new things about the topic of the project; others at least some. However, the diagram shows that we can focus even more on the topic of the project in the upcoming mobilities.

I have been actively involved in relevant phases of the project work before and during the international meeting.

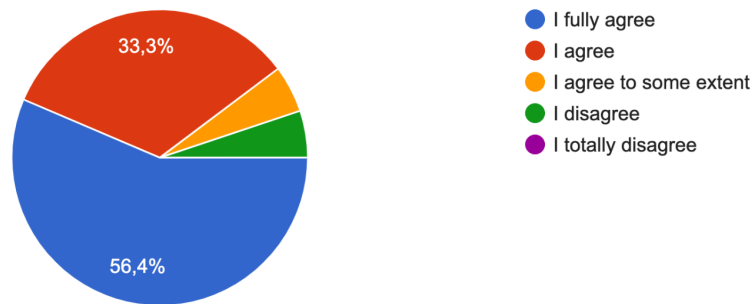

39 svar

Almost all students agree that they have been actively involved in preparing for the mobility, at least to some extent. A few students have not, and it is hard to tell the reason why. Nevertheless, we should make sure that all students are fully involved in the project before going since that ensures a smoother trip. For this particular mobility as well as the previous ones, some students came in late and therefore did not have the opportunity to prepare as much as we otherwise would have liked.

The information I received from the teachers before and during the meeting was sufficient and helpful.

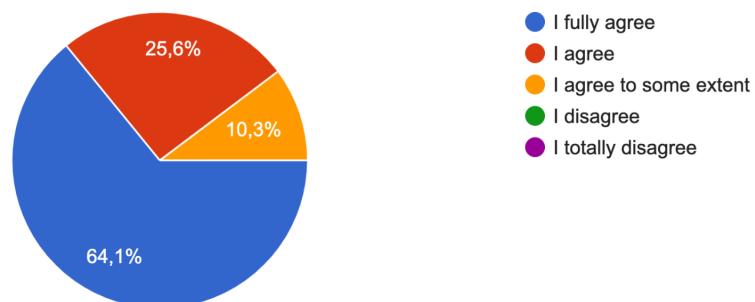

39 svar

The majority of the students found the information received from the teachers helpful; only a few needed more. Before next mobility, we should aim to provide them with even more thorough information.

I had no problems communicating with other students.

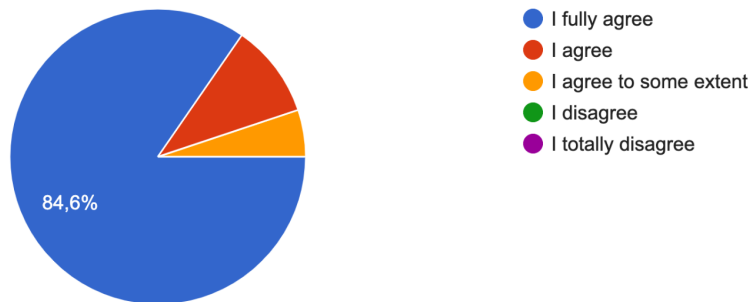

39 svar

All of the students found that they could communicate with the other students, at least to some extent. This shows the relevance of this particular project and ensures a successful mobility.

My stay with the host family (or hosting a guest student) was comfortable and pleasant.

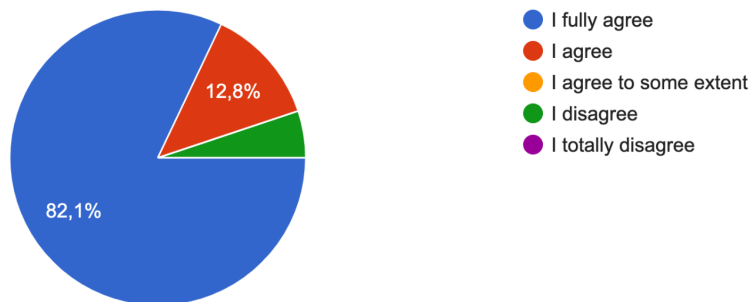

39 svar

The vast majority of the students were happy with their stay in the host families. As always, there were some students who had difficulties communicating with their host families. This is normal, but we should stress that host families are different and that students need to adapt to the family's life.

My English was good enough to participate and to carry out project work.

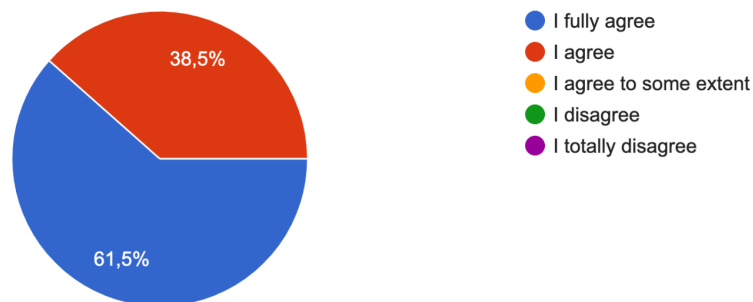

39 svar

All of the students were able to speak English well enough to be part of the project. This is an important building block of the whole project.

My competence in ICT was good enough for communication and to carry out project activities.

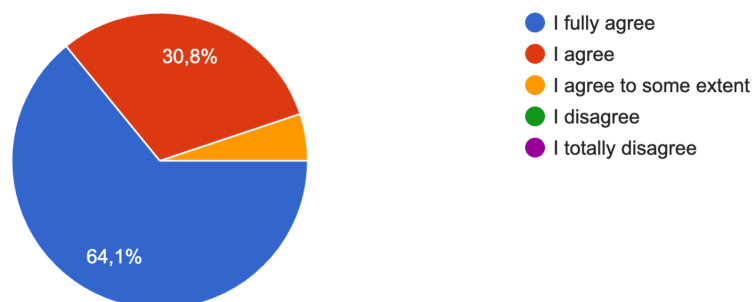

39 svar

The students are clearly competent users of digital technology, and therefore the usage of ICE was not a problem during the project.

I think I will keep in touch with some people I have met here.

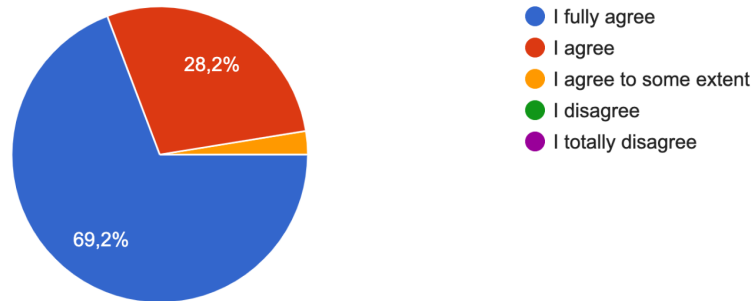

39 svar

Almost everyone will keep in touch with someone after the project. This is one of the aims of the project, and it seems to be a successful one. Some students may or may not keep in touch with other students. However, lifelong friendships are just a goal, not a requirement of the project.

What I have learnt will have a positive impact on my attitude towards cultural differences and mobility in Europe.

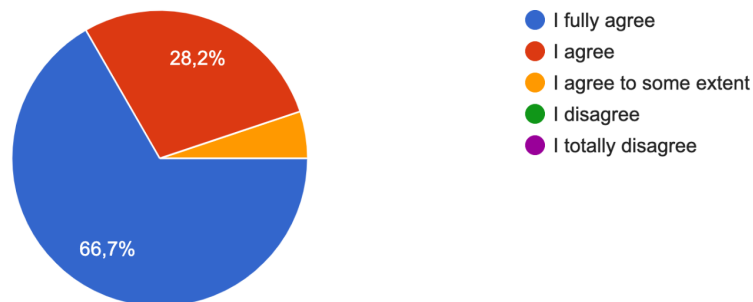

39 svar

There is a widespread positive attitude towards the EU and other European countries after this project. 98% agree or fully agree with this statement.

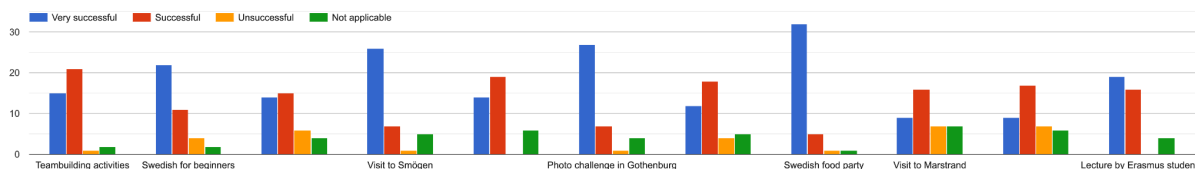

I am ready to share what I have learnt with my peers after taking part in this international project.

39 svar

All the students feel prepared - in one way or another - to share their experiences with their classmates at home.

Please rate the activities in the program:

The students were happy with most activities, it seems. The most successful ones were the visit to Smögen, the photo challenge in the city, Swedish for beginners, as well as the Swedish food party. All in all, the mobility must be considered a success.
